

Input/discussion on demands for consideration
within the range of alternatives (summarized by topic):

- This zone appears to be one where intensive management of recreation is needed, and where it may be important to manage for outcomes and settings.
- Potential Management Actions or Allowable Uses:
 - Consider whether restrictions are needed on motorized boats (e.g., jet boats). Restrictions could be seasonal (e.g., just during summer) to avoid unnecessary restrictions on duck hunters, if that's the primary use.
 - Seasonal conditions of the Gunnison may prevent jet boat use during summer
 - Consider potential need to manage use at mouth of Dominguez in the future—management actions to disperse people away from this area, as well as potential restrictions on number
 - Any restrictions should be fair (consider all user groups, not just boaters or just hikers)
 - Consider options for increasing supply of camps (at Dominguez, as well as above and below). May also be opportunities in the future on bench above the river for hikers.
 - Look for opportunities to improve access (current access all within railroad right-of-way, not adequate for rafters)
- Enforcement issues at launches
- Consider effect of potential increases in use

Issues/discussion from Public comment

- Special care for hookless cactus populations and hawk habitat needed in this area
- Cottonwood restoration: plant both male and female cottonwoods.
- Firewood limitations should be considered in riparian areas.
- Consider regulating jet boats

Topics needing more research/information

- The Council wishes to learn more about gold prospecting, waterfowl hunting, jetboat use

Other discussion topics

- Council members continued to express the perspective that while they're focusing on recreation as a way of organizing discussions, this is a National Conservation Area, not a National Recreation Area. Biological and cultural management is important and may need to be revisited as the Council learns more.
